Hytera digital evidence management software applications

Capturing evidence in the field is one thing, but effectively and securely reviewing and managing crucial video data is another altogether.

Evidence management is an integral part of any body worn video solution. An effective evidence management platform protects not only the public involved in captured footage, but also enforcement personnel using bodycams and the organisations to which they belong. Hytera has catered for organisations of all types by offering a distinct range of software options.

Hytera's software applications have been designed with exactly this in mind - they sit independently so that IT departments have total flexibility on how to install them, and there are different applications which cater for different users' needs.
